

How Ten Spot Helps Informatica Transform Their Employee Engagement Strategy

As an accelerator of data-driven digital transformation themselves, when the COVID-19 pandemic shifted so many businesses to online and hybrid work, Informatica was well-positioned to adjust.

The company, based in Redwood City, CA, understands how data is powering the world's innovations and understood Ten Spot's potential impact on keeping their global teams connected when the pandemic hit.

With traditional in-person workplace conversations and activities disrupted, Informatica's leaders got creative and built out its 'RISE' team which generated successful onboarding of the platform and focused most of the time on ways to boost employee engagement.

A few things the team at Informatica loves about Ten Spot:

The powerful diverse offerings

“We have some very unique needs and have never had an employee wellness platform that was hitting multiple areas of interest (not only fitness which we’ve received from a previous provider) but mental health, mindfulness, personal/professional and financial wellness. Once we made the decision for Ten Spot, we haven’t looked back.”

The commitment to innovation

“When we thought about something we wish Ten Spot had, we can talk with our Account Management team, and only a short time after, we would learn Ten Spot was probably working on it.”

The impact on employee engagement

“It’s one of our cornerstones to keep our employees happy and interested at work, and with 40% licence utilization in less than 30 days, Ten Spot is allowing us to help do that.”
